ACTIVITY

You and your child can pass the time waiting at an appointment by taking turns pretending your keys are jingle bells as you sing this simple song called Jingle at the Window.

This game is ideal for situations when you have been placed in a room and are waiting, so you have privacy. Place your child in your lap facing you and gently pass your car keys back and forth. The person holding the keys when you sing the lyrics, "Jingle at the window, Tideo" gets to hold on to the keys and jingle them throughout the chorus. Repeat the passing game until your child wants to stop.

Passing a desirable object is a great skill for school readiness and an important building block for sharing.
